Who we are

Teamwork enthusiasts

In improv, to “tag in” means stepping in to support the group and keep things moving. At work, strong teams do the same.

With over a decade of experience in corporate communications and marketing—and 8+ years of improv training—KC Korge founded Tag In Company in 2025.

Our mission? Blend improv and business to help teams build trust, communicate clearly, and collaborate more effectively.

What we offer

Experiential, improv-based team development

Team building workshops

Leadership coaching

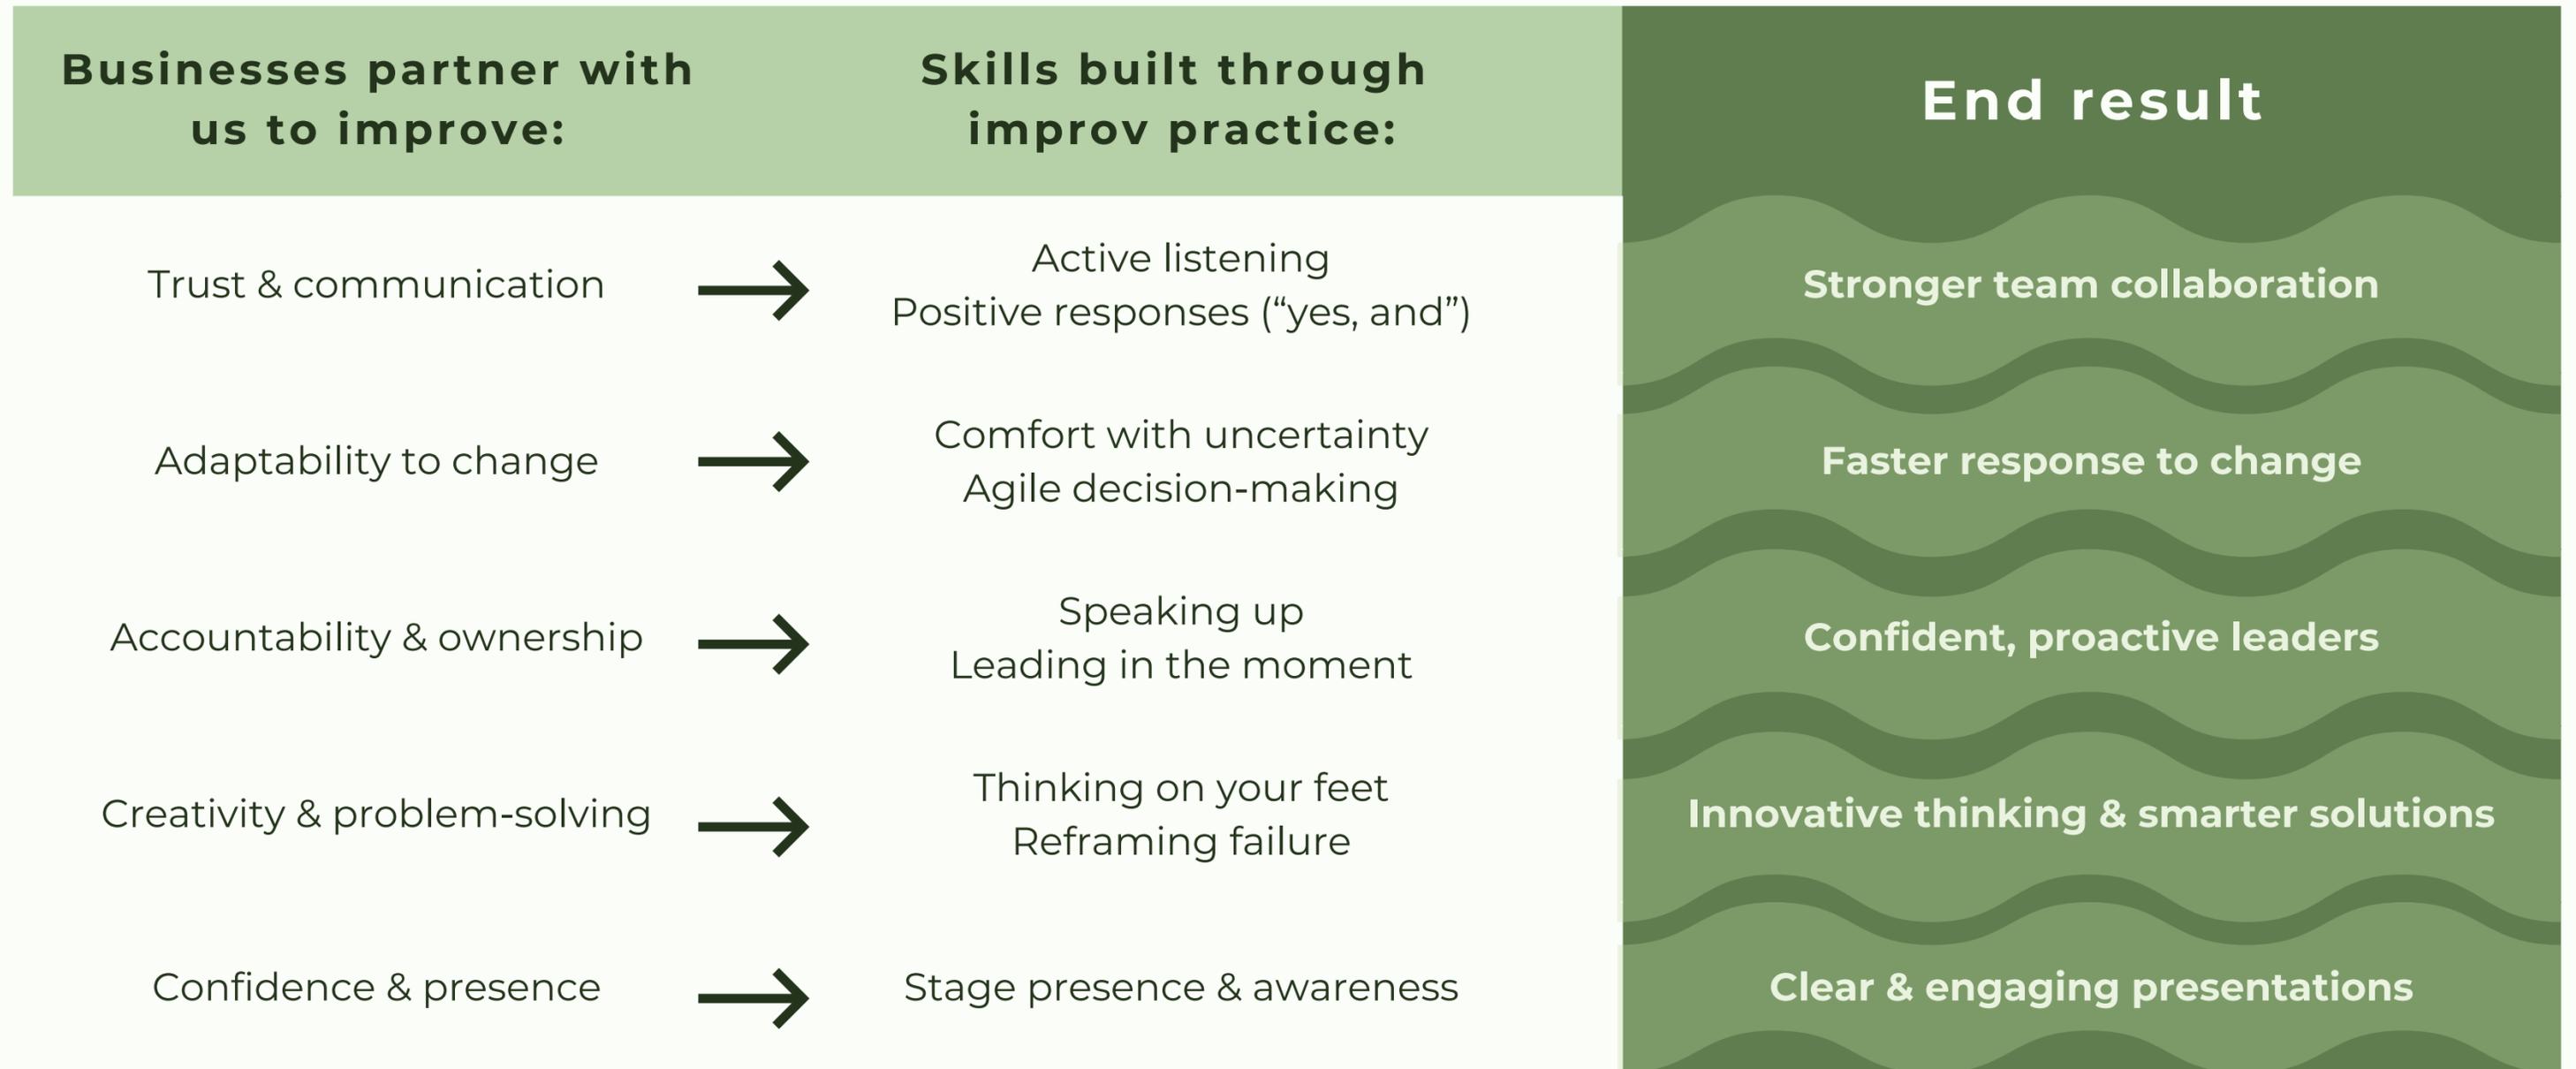

Corporate event performances

All programs are custom-designed to your team's goals and use improv-based activities for skill-based training. A truly unique team experience—no improv background required.

- Team building workshops to focus on communication and collaboration
- Leadership coaching to strengthen confidence, presence, and influence
- Private corporate event performances for fun, memorable shared experiences

Improv builds better teams

What to expect

A hands-on, experiential training session

- Preliminary call with our team to discuss specific goals and logistics
- 1-2 hour sessions
- We come to you — any office or event space
- Groups from 8 to 100+ participants
- Typical flow:
 - Light warm-ups to get comfortable and present
 - Fun Improv-based activities designed for your team's goals
 - Discussion and group reflection: how it applies to daily work
 - Clear takeaways teams can use immediately
